

Technician's Creed

Upon my honour, I swear that I hold in sacred trust the rights and privileges conferred upon me as a qualified technician. Knowing full well that safety and lives of others are dependent upon my skill and judgement, I will never knowingly subject others to risks which I would not be willing to assume for myself.

In discharging the trust, I pledge myself never to undertake work or approve work which I feel to be beyond the limits of my knowledge; nor will I allow anyone to persuade me to approve aircraft or equipment as serviceable against my better judgement; nor will I permit my judgment to be influenced by personal comforts or advantages; nor will I approve a serviceable aircraft or equipment about which I am in doubt, either as a result of direct inspection or uncertainty regarding the ability of others who have worked on it to accomplish their work satisfactorily.

I realize the grave responsibility which is mine as a qualified technician, to exercise my judgment on the condition of aircraft and equipment. I, therefore, pledge unyielding adherence to these precepts for the advancement of aviation and for the dignity of my profession.

Adopted from the Mechanic's Creed (1941) written by Jerome Ledner

